How can we prevent bullying behaviour?

Education

We have PSHE lessons, assemblies and new student workshops as part of induction.

Anti-Bullying Ambassadors in every year group including sixth form (see Anti-Bullying Board for current list of students)

Easier reporting

As well as being able to report to staff, we have provided other ways to report bullying behaviour so that any incidences can be dealt with much quicker.

Email: antibullying@campion.northants.sch.uk

By treating each other the way in which we would like to be treated we can learn together in a safe and happy environment.

We are all unique and therefore have differences but we are all part of Campion School

What if I am being targeted?

Report all bullying behaviour and try not to retaliate, however, stand up to them and ask them to stop.

Let someone know

Listen

Listen to the advice that you are receiving about telling and listen to yourself. If someone else's actions or behaviours make you feel uncomfortable or upset then you have the right to report it.
Keep reporting it until someone listens.

Statement

Campion school considers bullying behaviour to be something that is carried out several times on purpose.

We are a telling school. We want everyone to feel safe and confident enough to be able to share their concerns and we expect all bullying behaviour to be reported.

By stopping bullying behaviour within our school we will be creating a better future for all.
